Short Description

In his first message after experiencing restoration from personal failure in his own life and ministry, Pastor Paul shares three important lessons we can learn from the profound words Jesus spoke on the eve of his crucifixion; based on Matthew 26:31-35 and Luke 22:31-32.

Description

On the night He was crucified, Jesus forewarned Peter that he and the other disciples would scatter and forsake their Savior. Of course, Peter protested in disbelief. But in a matter of hours, he publicly denied knowing who Jesus was and in so doing, experienced the worst failure of his life. But Jesus had not only predicted the failure, He had also assured Peter of something all of us need to know: failure isn't final!

In this, his first message after experiencing restoration from personal failure in his own life and ministry, Pastor Paul shares three important lessons we can learn from the profound words Jesus spoke on the eve of his crucifixion. Based on Matthew 26:31-35 and Luke 22:31-32.
